Man: When I was young, my mom liked to cook and was especially good at making noodles and dumplings. She even started cooking steamed bread. I remember particularly what happened one night. On that evening, my mom placed a plate of burned bread in front of my dad and I kept silent to see if he had noticed it. Yet my father seemed not to have found anything unusual and all he did was to smile at my mom and ask me how my day at school was. I don't remember what I said, but I do remember watching him eat that bread. When I got up from the table that evening, I remembered hearing my mom apologize for the burned bread. And I'll never forget what he said: "Baby, I love that burnt bread." Later that night, I went to kiss my father good night and I asked if he really liked his bread burned. He wrapped me in his arms and said, "Son, your mom has four classes a day at school and she's really tired. A little burnt bread never hurts anyone! But words will!"
