Mrs. Jones is 82 years old. Although her life was hard, she was always nicely dressed every day. One morning Mrs. Jones was moving to the old people's home. After waiting for several hours, Mrs. Jones still smiled sweetly when she was told that her room was ready. On the way to her room, I said sorry to her because there were no big or beautiful rooms left. I also told her what her room was like.

After hearing that, she said, "I love it!"

"But Mrs. Jones, you haven't seen the room yet!" I was surprised.

... She said, "Whether I like my room or not doesn't depend on how big and beautiful it is. It depends on my mind. I have already decided to love the room before I see it." "I'm already 82. I'm happy that I can still have a choice. I can spend the day in bed in my small room and think how small it is. Or I can choose to get out of bed and feel thankful that I can still enjoy a new day," she continued. "Each day is a gift. I'll enjoy my life and all the happy memories I got." ↓

... So it is your mind that makes you happy, not anything else. ↓
