Alice's mother almost got mad. Her sixteen-year-old daughter had changed a lot. She was often absent from school, argued with teachers and refused to communicate with her parents. Her mother tried all ways to deal with the problems, but they didn't work.

One school day, Alice returned home at nearly 10 o'clock. It was very late. She looked worried. She said, "On my way home, I saw a cat lying in front of a house. It was very sick. I knocked at the door, but nobody was in. So I left a message with my phone number and then I took it to the animal hospital. At last, I paid 15 dollars for it. I don't know if it can be better."

The next morning, a woman called to speak to Alice, but she was at school.

Her mother answered the phone. To her surprise, the woman said thankfully, "You have a wonderful daughter!" She had just returned from the animal hospital and her cat was getting well because of Alice's help.

When Alice heard the news, she was very excited. Though she was experiencing her teenage years and sometimes caused trouble, she was still in the right direction because of her warm heart.

第四节 听力填空

这一节你将听到一篇短文。请你根据听到的内容,填写下面的表格,每空一词。

(读速要求:第一遍读完后停顿 00'10"再读第二遍)

Have you ever heard about Black Friday? It is the day after Thanksgiving Day in the USA. Usually, it is a busy shopping day. Many stores sell things at very low prices.

In some states Black Friday is a public holiday. So people usually have a day off work to go shopping for the Christmas season. But when so many people rush to the shops, it may cause problems. For example, sometimes there are fights among customers, because everyone hopes to buy the cheapest things. And some people are even hurt badly by the crowds. If you want to take part in Black Friday sales, try to avoid large crowds and keep a cool head while shopping. Please remember safety comes first!

VIII. 书面表达(满分 10 分)

One possible version:

As a teenager, I think I'm old enough to be independent. I'm lucky to have such understanding parents that I am often allowed to decide on many things by myself.

I still remember when I started my junior high school, my mom hoped I could take after—school classes because she was worried that I couldn't do well in my schoolwork. But I thought I should develop my hobby since the schoolwork wasn't difficult for me. Though we had different opinions, my mother agreed with me at last. I decided not to attend classes on weekends. In order to balance my schoolwork and hobby, I made plans and followed them strictly. As a result, I got good scores in my exams. My hobby didn't get in the way of my schoolwork. Instead, it helped me relax and study better. I was happy because I made a correct decision by myself.

I'd like to thank my parents. At the same time, I want to give them some suggestions. As teenagers, we need more chances to learn to manage our own lives. Only by being trusted can we become independent gradually.
