One possible version,

The winter holiday is coming soon. It's my favorite holiday because I have more time with my family. During winter vacation, my family usually get together to cook and have big meals. I can feel the warmth of family at the dinner table.

For this year's winter vacation, I make a general plan for it. First, winter vacation is a time for self-improvement. I'm going to finish my homework carefully on time. My English is not good. So I decide to spend more time doing English exercises and reading English novels. Secondly, I am going to spend more time with my friends. Many of my friends like playing basketball so we are going to make a basketball team and play basketball every afternoon. I think it's good exercise. Finally, after a tiring school year, I'm going to relax myself. I am going to visit my grandparents. Then we will celebrate Spring Festival with them. I haven't seen them for a long time. I miss them very much.

This is my winter holiday plan. What about yours?

Last Sunday, the Green's family had a birthday party. It was a party for their son—Mike. They didn't buy anything. Instead, they made a big birthday cake and prepared delicious food themselves. To their surprise, the first guest came at 11 o'clock. But it was a monkey. It appeared in their living room.

Mary, the children's mother, quickly took the children into the next room and closed the door. Their dad, Jill, shouted and scared the monkey to let it go away. But it was of no use. The monkey seemed to be quite happy to stay there. It ate up the birthday cake.

At 11:30, all the guests arrived. They moved near the monkey but found it was badly ill. A friend called the police. Ten minutes later, the police arrived and sent it to the hospital.

Although there were no birthday cakes any more, the Greens were still happy because the monkey would die without their help.

The next day, people sent the monkey back to the zoo.

Many teenagers make resolutions at the start of the year. But it is hard to keep them. Here are some tips on how to keep your resolutions, as you welcome the new year 2018.

First, you need to prepare a pen and some paper to write down your resolutions. This helps you to remember them.

Second, be careful when you choose resolutions. Do not pick the same old resolutions that are too difficult for you to keep.

Third, promise you are going to try hard to keep your resolutions if you have decided on them.

Next, tell friends and classmates about your resolutions. You can't succeed without others' help.

Last, always take a step back over and over again. If there is anything wrong with your resolutions, try to improve, or they probably won't come true.

Wish you a better 2018.
