第二节 书面表达 (满分 15 分)

Dear Susan,

How is everything? I'm writing to ask whether you can do me a favor. I have signed up for the national English recital contest of classic poetry. I will recite an English version of an ancient Chinese poem that day. However, troubled by some problems related to translation and pronunciation, I find it far more difficult than expected. The translation version and the audio file of the poem have been sent to you via email. It is widely acknowledged that you are an expert in traditional Chinese culture, so I desperately desire your guidance. I am wondering if it is convenient for you to meet me at the cafe near our school at 6:00 this Saturday afternoon or you can recommend another time, if not. Your considerate patience is greatly appreciated.

Looking forward to your early reply and many thanks to you again.

Yours,

Li Hua

As a young boy, he did not go to school much, but he managed to teach himself everything he needed to know. Later, O. Henry went to Texas, where he had a job in a bank. But something unfortunate happened. When some money went missing from the bank, O. Henry was believed to have stolen it. As a result, he was sent to prison. During the four years in prison, he fell in love with writing short stories. After he got out of prison, he went to New York and started writing as a professional writer. People liked his stories, because although the stories are quite simple, they would finish with a sudden change at the end, to the readers' surprise.
