Building a civilized city is our duty. We should take an active part in it. The students in our class really did something good.

Last Friday, our head teacher organized a class meeting in which we discussed about the sharing bikes. We all know they bring a lot of convenience to us, but many users leave the bikes in the middle of the street or just put them everywhere. After that we made up our minds to do something. We prepared some posters and ads for people. The next day, all the classmates in our class walked on the street. Some put out the ads, while others put the shared bikes in the right places. We went out of our way to explain how to use shared bikes properly. It was not until six o'clock that we returned home. Although we all felt tired, we were filled with joy and pride.

As teenagers, we are supposed to speak with politeness, behave kindly and be warm-hearted. If everyone tries their best, our city will be more beautiful and attractive.

I'm Meimei. Last summer I joined a summer study camp in the US. It lasted for three weeks. I improved my spoken English and made lots of friends there. We not only took a trip in New York but also had a special English class that was full of fun. I still remember one morning the teacher showed us a popular movie first in class. The movie was interesting. Then we were asked to act out the dialogue in the movie. At first, I thought I could act it well because I had watched the movie before. But soon, I found that it was so difficult to remember the English words. To be honest, I was not so good at acting. And I was too shy to perform with foreign kids. Luckily, they were friendly and creative. They encouraged me to try. They also cheered for me and gave me a hand when I needed help. That made me feel much better. After practicing lots of times, we finally did it well. The teacher gave us a big smile, too. How exciting! And suddenly I realized that we may meet some difficulties in life, but if we try our best and never give up, nothing is too difficult to finish.
