Kangaroos have long been a nuisance to many Australian farmers. Keeping these kinds of animals away from their crops and water supplies has become a continuous fight. A traditional way has been a series of the huge screaming (尖叫) from loudspeakers. Researchers have found that kangaroos often become used to these man-made sounds and take little notice of them.

Australian farmers could be about to get an unusual new weapon (武器) to protect their crops from kangaroos. Researchers in Melbourne have found that kangaroos can be frightened away by the loud sound of their own large feet. It appears to be quite a breakthrough. This is the noise these animals make when they feel danger before running away quickly. Using the animals' own alarm system could be what angry farmers have been looking for.

Animal rights protectors are happy about this new finding. When people complain that the number of kangaroos has risen quickly, they say that a large number of kangaroos have been killed or injured on Australian roads by cars and trucks. Also, they don't want several million to be shot dead every year by human beings. Researchers, who are hoping to develop their footstep sound technology, believe it could also be used to lead kangaroos away from busy highways. The protectors are in favor of this solution which can prevent kangaroos from being harmed and also please the farmers.

44. What problem do kangaroos bring to Australian farmers?
- A. Breaking into houses.
B. Making noises.
B. Frightening farmers.
D. Destroying crops.
45. What is the new way to drive away kangaroos?
- A. Cutting off water supplies.
B. Killing them with guns.
C. Using the sound of their own footstep.
D. Sending man-made sound through loudspeakers.

46. Why do animal rights protectors agree with this new solution?

- A. Because it costs less.
- B. Because they prefer new technology.
- C. Because it's a prevention — and — protection way.
- D. Because it can help reduce the traffic accidents.

以下 A（易）、B（难）两种题型任选一种，做 A 题型的不做 B, 做 B 题型的不做 A。

Many of us were delighted to learn that a high school senior Kwasi Enin was accepted to all eight Ivy（常青藤）League universities. To our surprise, he wasn't excited as expected, but appeared extra calm. He announced that he would revisit the universities to find the best suitable in music or medicine. He also wanted to compare their financial aid packages.

Kwasi's success story is rare, but his reaction is not. After the admission letters arrive at home, students have 30 days to really think about what kind of school would help them grow as a person, which school would best prepare them for the future, and at which school they would be happiest. And they also have to think about whether they can afford the school they choose.

But how to answer the questions about which school is the best suitable university? Some young people are attracted to large universities with great school spirit and a list of offerings. But besides those advantages, many of these universities focus on graduate work and research, with undergraduates（本科生）taught mostly by part-time instructors. Others are attracted to smaller boarding schools with discussion-based classes. But some of these schools will have much limitation for students who want a high-energy city life experience.

Many students today seem to think they should pick the university where they will get the diploma that will help them get the most highly paid job. This is a sad misunderstanding of what a college education should provide. A good college education should prepare them to overcome any difficulty and thrive in society. It helps them to form the habit of creative mind and spirit that will continue to develop far beyond their university years. So when you choose college, you should consider if it is filled with useful learning to help create new spaces for different possibilities of growth.

（以下是 A 种题型）

47. What can we know about Kwasi Enin from paragraph 1?

- A. He was from a very poor family.
- B. He would choose the top university.
- C. He was too excited to calm himself at the good news.
- D. He considered his interests when choosing his university.

48. What can you infer from paragraph 2?

- A. Few students can be admitted to university.
- B. Many students face the choices like Kwasi.
- C. Top universities are the first choice for most students.

- D. American students can afford their university by themselves.
49. which of the following can best explain the underlined word "thrive" in paragraph 4?
- A. fail. B. Succeed. C. Research. D. Work.
50. What should the best university be like according to the text?
- A. Very large and have good instructors.
B. Small boarding schools with discussion-based classes.
C. It will offer the diploma to get the most highly paid job.
D. It will help continue to develop far beyond university years.
- (以下是 B 种题型)
47. Why did Kwasi Enin surprise us?
48. How long does it take students to make a decision after they get the admission letters?
49. What disadvantages do some smaller boarding schools have?
50. How should students choose college education according to the text?

根据短文内容, 从短文后的选项中选出能填入空白处的最佳选项。答案写在答题卡上。

When you make an order on Taobao, you know the money you pay doesn't go directly to the seller. Instead, it goes through Alipay, which keeps your money for a while. Then Alipay gives the money to the seller. 51 _____. It is a transfer (中转) station between sellers and buyers to make online shopping safe. Buyers needn't worry about paying for products and then receiving nothing. Sellers also don't worry about receiving no money after sending out products. These transfer stations are usually set up by payment service companies such as Alipay, Tenpay and YeePay. 52 _____. It has more than 270 million active users.

Most online sellers and shoppers like the third party online payment, but banks are not happy. 53 _____. Users can benefit from financial products through Alipay and make money. So lots of people choose to put money in Alipay rather than in banks.

54 _____. WeChat doesn't have its own account. When paying through WeChat, the buyers' money goes directly to the sellers. That's why so many people are excited about receiving and handing out "red envelopes" or "gift money" to their friends on WeChat.

Whether Alipay or WeChat payment, they are both trying to attract more users and make online shopping easier. Both payments have made the best of QR code technology. 55 _____. Maybe in the future, your face is the key to everything.

- A. But WeChat payment is not the same
B. This is called "third party online payment"
C. Among them, Alipay is the biggest in China
D. The reason is that these companies fight over money with them
E. Also, they promote sales through face recognition payment

第二节书面表达 (满分 15 分)

Dear Bob,

How is everything going? I am writing this letter to invite you join me to take part in the "English Song Contest" to be held next month. I know you are also a music lover, and I believe we two will surely make a great team.

I'd like to sing a song about friendship, but I am kind of stuck with the selection. What do you suggest? If you agree to join in the activity, would you like to practice in the garden of our school from 5:00 to 6:00 in the afternoon? If you have difficulty, please let me know.

Any recommendation on your part shall be highly appreciated. I am looking forward to your reply.

Yours,

Li Hua
